

What is the Truth?

Texts: 2 Samuel 23:1-7
Revelation 1:4b-8 (Series B, Christ the King) Psalm 132:1-13 (14-19)
John 18:33-37

Prayer:

Today is the last Sunday of Pentecost, also known as the “Christ the King” Sunday before Advent. Its’ colour is White, festive day of the Lord. The theme of the day is eternal Truth, and stresses the Parousia, the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ as King of the universe. Which was promised to God’s people old and now, that at the end the Messiah will rule in truth and glory.

I would like us to transport ourselves in mind to the residence of the Roman governor Pilate. A great contrast took place between Pilate and the prisoner, Jesus. Pilate shuffled back and forth as he listened to what the accusing priests and people had to say. Outside his ears were picking up the chanting of the crowd crucify, crucify, crucify, crucify him. All the cries thrown around him, and Pilate became a figure of confusion. He was losing control of himself and the situation.

Pilate asks Jesus: “Are you the King of the Jews?” In essence Jesus replies that he is, but not in the sense in which Pilate uses the word. His kingdom is not a dominion over people’s bodies, but over their minds and souls.

This kingdom is not maintained by force but by the persuasion of love and truth. Pilate is baffled so he blurts out, “What is truth?” Pilate becomes a picture of a man who is unsure of himself. No guiding principle is undergirding him. He was guided only by convenience and the fear for his own position.

This ruler was spinning around the ring like a punch-drunk fighter or as a shadow boxer. Confidence was waning. In striking contrast, Christ stood calm and collected before him. He was unafraid. In spite of the denunciation Jesus’ dignity was never darkened.

He knew that for which he was born; his mission was well defined; his loins were girded with truth. His words to Pilate were simply, “for this I was born ... to bear witness to the truth.”

What is truth? A parade of past philosophers would give us different answers. Some would say that truth is a statement that agrees with the facts. Others would inform us that something is true only when it is compatible with a system of other truths.

Still, some would tell us that truth is more pragmatic. If a statement is acted upon and the results are good for you, then it's true. (The two professors from the University of Heidelberg were trying to define the truth as they walk along banks of the Reine river in Germany, die Wahrheit). Trying to define truth is no easy task.

In Scripture Jesus says, “If you continue in my word, you are truly my disciples, and you will know the truth and the truth will make you free” (John 8:31-32). God's Word is thus authority and truth. As a boy I remember the preachers always using the phrase, after reading Scripture, “These are thy words, Heavenly Father. Sanctify us in the truth, for thy words are truth.”

There is another kind of truth that I believe is more important than philosophical or theological statements. It is the truth of the person. John says, “And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth” (John 1:14) Truth was wrapped up in a person. Jesus said, “I am ... the truth” (John 14:6). Truth is something we should be. Jesus was the embodiment of all truth. Truth as absolute honesty and perfect integrity – the kind of truth we are called to be – was contained in the very core of Jesus' being.

Paul Tillich a renowned theologian said, “In (Jesus) the true, the genuine, the ultimate reality is present, unveiled, undistorted in his infinite depth, in his magnificent mystery.” Jesus is the source of all truth. In that truth comes our freedom to be. In relationship to the grace and truth of Jesus we are set free from guilt, sin, insecurity, and legions of fear.

There are two main words in Scripture used for truth. In the New Testament the word is aletheia. The basic meaning is “non-concealment” or “unhiddenness.” Truth is open to view. It is expressed rather than suppressed.

It is the opposite of a cover-up. Jesus talks about this aspect of truth when he said to his disciples, “All that I have heard from the Father I have made known to you” (John 15:15). Jesus did not have a hidden agenda. He made no fake passes.

Falseness is an intent to deceive. It can be done by words that mislead, by the glance of an eye, by an expression of the countenance. Satan is the arch deceiver. Jesus is the light in whom there is no darkness of deception.

The person of truth walks in the light. There is no fear of being transparent. But when we failed to make friend with the truth, many folks stay buttoned-up.

We want our flaws and faults to remain under wraps. We forfeit closeness with anyone, because we are afraid of being exposed. If we identify with Christ and let him free us, we will be given the courage to be open and honest to family and friends. We will not have to baby-sit our reputation.

In the Old Testament the word for truth is emeth. It comes from a verb that means, “to be firm, solid and sure,” and its basic meaning is “reliability” or “faithfulness.” Ellen G. White wrote: “The greatest want of the world is the want of men – men who will not be bought or sold, men who in their inmost souls are true and honest, men who do not fear to call sin by its right name, men whose conscience is a true to duty as the needle to the pole, men who will stand for right though the heavens fall.”

We can bank on Jesus. What he said, he would do. Standing before Pilate, listening to the angry mob was not easy. He could have run for his life. He could have called in the legions of heaven to deliver him. But Jesus refused to escape. He said he came to give his life as a ransom for many. Nothing would sidetrack him from completing his mission.

Scripture depicts our God as one whose word will stand forever. The psalmist sings, ‘Thy faithfulness endures to all generations’ (Psalm 119:20). Paul says, ‘If we are faithless, he remains faithful’ (2Tim. 2:13). Sweeping across Germany at the end of World War II, Allied forces searched farms and houses looking for snipers.

At one abandoned house, almost a heap of rubble, searchers with flashlights found their way to the basement. There, on the crumbling wall, a victim of the Holocaust had scratched a Star of David. Beneath it, in rough lettering, was this message:

I believe in the sun – even when it does not shine.

I believe in love – even when it is not shown.

I believe in God – even when he does not speak.

That is faith in the faithfulness of God at its finest. For you and for me truthfulness means that we will attempt to be the kind of people who others can always count on. Assignments that we undertake will be carried out to completion. When we give our word, there will be no backing out.

Truth will be our rudder, so that we will not be subject to every shift of wind or tide. Just as God’s grip won’t slip, we too, will give permanence and security to those around us. May our words and life be just that.

At the end of another church year let us thank King Jesus that he had the power to produce everything he has promised. Paul shouts: ‘For all the promises of God find their Yes in him.

That is why we utter the Amen through him, to the glory of God” (2 Cor. 1:20) Let us ‘continue in his Word so we shall know the truth and the truth will make us free.’ Let us see that truth is something we are. If Pilate had sat at the feet of Jesus, he would have found the truth. Then he would not have been a pawn pushed to and fro on the day he delivered Jesus to be crucified.

For us who endeavor to follow, Christ is our only King and saviour and shows us the way to the true and everlasting Kingdom. The question for each of us is: to what truth do we listen and choose to belong? The “easy” answer is: Everyone who belongs to the truth listens to Christ’s voice. How, then, do we live it?

“I am the Alpha and the Omega,” says the Lord God, who is and who was and who is to come, the Almighty. May the peace of God which passes all understanding keep your heart and mind through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Let us pray: Christ of All Peoples, our Alpha and Omega, rescue us from the power of darkness and transform our anxieties into fruitful action. Keep us striving toward Your purpose as we offer our labors to soothe the sufferings of humanity near and far. We ask through Jesus our Christ, the Faithful Witness; and the Holy Spirit, the very Breath of Love, who together with You are our One God, for ever and for evermore. Amen.

Prayer concerns: Matilda Molyneaux-Piper, Shirley Walker, Hanne Bourgeoise, Ellen Eriksen, the dire situation in BC, flood situation, Middle East & Covid -19 patients, essential and Frontline workers, Christian Aid Workers held as hostages in Haiti, Municipal elections, and Families of departed souls in recent weeks and months.

Make melodies in your heart with these hymns:

- Praise to The Lord # 858
- O God of Mercy, God of Light # 714
- Crown Him with many Crowns # 855

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Anne-Marie Jorgensen

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Othniel & Hyacinth Marshall

November 21, 2021